Smart Home Automation Interface for iPhone & iPod Touch

Wednesday, August 13th, 2008

CommandFusion announces the release of fully customizable iPhone application for home automation systems.

CommandFusion, an Australian-based company, has announced the release of it's first home automation control application, iViewer for iPhone and iPod Touch. The iViewer application renders a fully customizable user interface, designed using the CommandFusion guiDesigner software for Windows. This allows system integrators to create interfaces that look good enough to eat right of the gorgeous iPhone's 3.5" widescreen. (more...)
